

MOVING THE NEEDLE AT THE LOCAL LEVEL

IMPROVING WASTE DIVERSION

In 2017 CAFR developed the Front Range and Rural Round Tables to address specific challenges our diverse communities face with waste diversion and reduction. This year's round table continues that work and explores specific policies we can work on over the next year in a collaborative manner. What actionable items can communities take THIS YEAR to move the needle? From CAFR's work with communities like Colorado Springs, we have developed a pathway for change. In this round table we will share the template, discuss how it has worked and then focus on one action item communities can do in the next 12 months.
